

Global youth call for climate-friendly food at COP28

22 April 2023

H.E. Dr. Al Jaber, H.E. Al Mazrui,

We write to you on behalf of the official youth constituency to UNFCCC (YOUNGO) and over 140 youth and civil society organisations, calling on the COP28 Presidency to set an example in climate leadership by serving sustainable food at this year's climate change conference in Dubai.

To achieve this goal, we strongly encourage that at COP28:

- At least $\frac{3}{4}$ of all food options on the menu are plant-based;¹
- All food options—especially plant-based items—are affordable, nutritious, regionally sourced (where feasible), and culturally inclusive;
- A clear emissions label is displayed for all food options, as implemented at COP26.

Progress on climate-friendly catering has already been made at previous COPs and major climate events in Bonn, Glasgow, and Stockholm. Yet, despite persistent demands from attendees, especially youth, the food on offer at these events has been out of step with the climate emergency.

The science is clear: the food we produce and consume has a significant impact on the triple planetary crisis. Global food systems account for approximately one third of total anthropogenic greenhouse gas emissions and are on course to jeopardise the 1.5°C target even if we immediately phased out all fossil fuel production.^{2,3}

A majority of these emissions come from animal agriculture, with animal products having a significantly larger environmental footprint on average than plant-based foods.^{4,5} Leading IPCC climate scientists consistently recommend that shifting to more plant-based diets is one of the most effective ways to mitigate the worst impacts of climate change.⁶

We therefore applaud the UAE for including the promotion of plant-based diets and reduction of food waste as part of the 2023 Year of Sustainability. As the first country in the region to sign the Paris Agreement and announce its Net Zero Strategy, the UAE has already shown climate action leadership.

Now, the UAE has a unique opportunity to set another milestone and become the first presidency to make catering at COP truly sustainable and predominantly plant-based. This step would also allow the UAE to highlight the importance of food systems in climate action, showcase its rich local cuisine, and cement its status as a pioneer in the use of innovative food and agriculture technologies.

We thank you for your consideration and look forward to further communication on this matter as soon as possible. We would be delighted to have the opportunity to meet with representatives of the UAE presidency at the AIM for Climate Summit in Washington D.C. in May or at SB58 in Bonn in June to discuss how we can best advance our joint goal of sustainable food systems transformation at COP28.

Sincerely,
